Why is HMRC investigating?

In the UK we live in an environment whereby the taxpayer is responsible for their own tax liability. HMRC opens investigations to see if the taxpayer has paid the right amount of tax on a random or selective basis. All this helps the government fill its ever expanding public finance black hole.

Beware of “Connect”!

HMRC now uses a sophisticated database called 'Connect' to start more than 80% of tax enquiries. The system collects data from 30 different sources, including UK and offshore banks, Companies House, the Land Registry, estate agents, the DVLA and other licensing authorities, and social media.

The data can be instantaneously reviewed by more than 3,000 HMRC investigators to produce a financial fingerprint for any taxpayer. If there are any discrepancies between tax returns or business accounts sent to HMRC, a tax enquiry will follow as sure as night follows day. Tax enquiries started from 'Connect' have produced billions of pounds in additional tax over the last few years.

Using 'Connect', HMRC can now target enquiries more accurately than ever before – but they still get it wrong sometimes. That's why we will always challenge HMRC regarding their reasons for an enquiry when defending clients.

What could an investigation involve?

HMRC so far has been targeting the SME sector, medical professionals such as dentists / doctors and 'hidden wealth' in particular, where HMRC call upon individuals who are apparently living beyond their declared means.

HMRC may have information about an offshore bank account, an expensive asset like a luxury car or even images from Google Earth showing a large extension. Reviewing records up to six years old is not uncommon and cost thousands to defend.

When HMRC comes knocking...

Case of mistaken identity

A husband & wife partnership selling and installing double glazing was investigated by HMRC. At a meeting, HMRC alleged the husband had been dishonest. By the end of a long and detailed enquiry, HMRC repaid £129 of tax to the partnership and apologised, confirming that the allegation of dishonesty was a case of mistaken identity.

Accountancy fees were approximately £5,000 and were paid in full by Vantage Fee Protect.
